KID ROYAL COMES TO TOWN

HE BRINGS TO HOOK IMPOSTORS WHO STOLE HIS NAME.

Their Bowery Show Must New Re Con ducted Under Another Style-Kid's Trade Is Exposing Tricks by Which Gam-biers Win-Was Formerly a Gambler. "Kid" Royal came to this town on Tuesday to protect his reputation and his rights, for in Columbus, O., it had been said that he was not the genuine Kid at all, but that the real article was on the Bowery, working the same sort of a game that the Kid himself was at that moment trying to put up in front of the members of the respectable Board of Trade of Columbus.

Now, Kid Royal doesn't pretend to be good, but since he started in to expose the wiles of the gambling and confidence men, in whose fraternity, according to his story, he was once a to prevent other people from invading his new-found industry and source of profit under cover of his name. Therefore it was a great shock to him, he declares, when, as he was telling the Columbus Board of Trade how to avoid the schemes of confidence nen and card sharpers, Julius Bernstein spoke up and intimated that Kid was not himself. Bernstein's father runs a wax-works show in Columbus, according to Royal.

You are not the Kid," Bernstein said. "Kid Royal is on the Bowery in New York. I've just come from there, and he is running a show, ex-posing gambling, up near Houston street."

Kid Royal didn't let any grass grow under his feet after that. He got to this city at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, hunted up the rival show that night, and yesterday morning he went before Magistrate Mott in the Essex Market Court and got summonses, ordering the proprietors of the Bowery show to appear and answer in court at 3 o'clock P. M. Then, for fear the newspapers would not hear of his advent and the discomfiture of his rivals, the Kid in person went to the newspaper offices and let them know what he had done. The show which Royal complained of was opened a week ago to-day at 255 Bowery, and it will flit, its proprietors say, in another week to the Midway of the Commer cial Travellers' Fair at Madison Square Gar-den. Its opening was announced simply by the tacking up of a red muslin sign across the from of a store, on which, in big white letters, is this

At each end of this are the words: "Free in the lobby." The word "free" is in much bigger letters than those words which follow. The fittings of the establishment are not elaborate. In each of the two windows are sweatboards, dice, playing cards, three walnut shells cut in half, and some poker chips. In one window is a marble game rack. Half way back inside the store is a partition of muslin screens, and a ticket seller's box. When a visitor has paid 10 cents he may see the show in the rear. This consists of half a dozen wheels of fortune, such as were worked at Coney Island and similar resorts during the summer, and the "lecturer" demonstrates to the visitors that these wheels are thoroughly under the control of the operator, and that he can make the pointers stop at any place he pleases.

The two young men running the show, who re "reformed gamblers" for that purpose, rere on duty on Tuesday night when the real tid called. One was in the ticket box and the Kid called. One was in the ticket box and the other inside.

"Where's the Kid?" asked Royal. "I am personally acquainted with him and would like to see him."

Then the other one came gut.

"Why, hello, Kid!" he@exclaimed. "What are you doing here? You ought to be out West. That's where I thought you were."

"What do you mean by having that name over the door?" asked Royal.

The younger of the two showmen explained that he had seen Royal in Chicago when he began exposing gamblers' tricks there, and thinking it a goodithing, he decided to start a show here.

"We took the name 'Royal Brothers,'" he and his partner said, "because it sounded Royal insisted upon their taking the name down when they got to court jesterday, and Magistrate Mott let them go upon their acreeing to this. The sign was removed last night. The name is to be changed. "I never charge and mission fee," said Kid Royal, "and wherever I go I depend entirely upon the sale of my book for money."

for money."

Then he proceeded to show the court reporters and the policemen there some of the tricks by which he declares that gambiers rob their victims without using dishonest tools.

"Now here." he said, "is a straight pack of cards. Watch what I do with them."

He sorted out three kings and put them on top of the pack. top of the pack.

I will shuffle four cards between each of them," he continued, and as he spoke he gave them a riffling shuffle and then threw off the top card. It was a king. Then in turn he threw off four other cards, turned up the next, which was another king; then four more cards, and the third king. was another king; then four more cards, and the third king. Next he placed a jack on top of the pack and

"And these are not strippers either," he said,
"as you can see for yourseif.
"I show all the ways in which men are robbed at gambling and confidence games," he added,
"but those in which honest cards or dice are used are the most dangerous. I do not tell how the tricks are done, for that, I believe, leads to the making of more gamblers.
"I am reformed, but not converted. I started my crusade against the gamblers in Chicago last March, because they were fighting me and wouldn't give me a chance to make a cent. During the World's Fair I got the enmity of the men who hack the gambling houses in Chicago. They are all politicians, and the professional gamblers in the houses are all hired. I made an arrangement with the authorities to pay $2,000 a day for the exclusive privilege of running gambling houses in the World's Fair district. The politicians made a kick, and they had to be let in, but I set up three gambling places and made about $100,000 during the two months of that summer.
After I had divided up I had about $25,000 left.
At the Arcade, in Sixty-third street, I had thirty-two tables inside and sixteen in the lobby. The sixteen in the lobby were all crooked. After the Fair was over I agreed to pay $2,000 a week for the exclusive privilege of running crap games on the weet side. They let me run one week, and then closed me up and kept the $10,000 I had put up as a guarantee.
After that they wouldn't let me open a place, and if I got a job in any other house they wouldn't let the proprietor keep me. Then I turned on them.

"I spent the summer in St. Louis, where I

I spent the summer in St. Louis, where I used to run a gambling house, and I have been in Detroit, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Toledo, and Columbus since, exposing the gamblers, and in some places forcing the authorities to close them up. No gambling house can exist without the connivance of the authorities."

Bevaleure be was born in Georgia in 1858. some places forcing the authorities to close them up. No gambling house can exist without the connivance of the authorities."

Royal says he was born in Georgia in 1858, and that he learned to gamble among the Union soldiers who were stationed in the Court House at Sparta in 1868. Then he ran away with a three-card monté man, who followed Ames's circus, and played the game for about two montins before his father got him home.

"In 1873," he says, "I learned the three-shell game, and the next year I joined a fakir, who took me with him through the Carolinas, I made about $2,000 with him, but one night he ran away with all the money. In the fall of 1885 I ran a shell game at the State fair at Kansas City and won $80,000, of which $20,000 was my share. I bought a brickyard with the money. On May 11, 1886, a cyclone destroyed the brickyard and left me without a dollar.

"I won $10,000 at Purcell Chickasaw Nation, in 1889, and put up buildings in Guthrie with the money. In 1890 I sold out for $20,000 and bought a circus. At Ishpeming, Mich., we stopped in July to give a show. We had advertised a balloon ascension and a parachute jump for an outside show, but the weather was too hot to give it. The Cornish-English miners who had come to see the show got mad and started in to wreck theshow. They did it so completely that I have never seen even a side pole or piece of rope belonging to it since. That's the way my gambling money went."

POLICEMAN HUNTER GETS DRUNK. Fined $10 in Jefferson Market Court-To Be Dismissed from the Force.

Policeman George Hunter of the West Twentieth street station was sent out in plain clothea at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to investigate the case of an unidentified man found dead in Seventh avenue on Sunday. Shortly after noon complaints were made at the station house that a drunken policeman was creating a disturbance and abusing shopkeepers along Seventh avenue. At 3 o'clock Capt. Walsh Seventh avenue. At 3 o'clock Capt, Walsh went out to investigate. He found Hunter in an intoxicated condition at Thirty-first atreet and reventh avenue. After some trouble he persuaded him to board a Seventh avenue car and go to the station.

On arriving at the station Capt, Walsh ordered Hunter to the rear room. He refused to obey, and insisted upon going out upon the street. The Captain then removed the priliceman's shelid and locked him up. Two hours later, on becoming somewhat soler, Hunter resigned his place as policeman.

Capt Walsh preferred two charges against Hunter at Police Headquarters yesterday, one of intoxication, and one of insubordination.

The Commissioners will dismiss him in place of accepting his resignation. Hunter was fined $10 in the Jefferson Market Police Court when arraigned yesterday.

TALMAGE DENIES IT.

Says He Is Not to Marry Miss Mangam-

Dr. Talmage came to town yesterday from Washington, and after putting his name down n the Astor House register, went directly to his office in the Bible House. He proceeded at once to deny the report of his engagement to Miss Susie Mangam of Sing Sing.

"Some one has made a mistake," said he.

"Folks do a lot of guessing now and then and occasionally they get things wrong. That's what happened this time-they gott twong."

He added that he had no idea what could have provided such a report. have provoked such a report.

At the residence of Miss Mangam in Sing sing also a flat denial of the report was made, it was stated that no engagement existed and that there was absolutely no ground for a report of that pature. of that nature.

WHY SCHNUERIGER WAS FIRED.

He Called a Fellow Republican of Union, N. J., a Hog and Boited. The town of Union Republican Association held a secret meeting on Tuesday night and expelled County Committeeman Hugo Schnueriger, on charges of disloyalty to the party at the last election. Assemblyman-elect W. O. Armbruster, who made the charges, said that Schnueriger characterized him as "a hog" while he was running for office, and had threat-ened to boit the ticket. Schnueriger was ex-pelled without a hearing.

The Weather.

The depression which covered all the central States and lake regions on Tuesday was drawn to a centre over the lake regions on Tuesday night, and early yesterday morning it moved to the northern New England coast, where it became a very severe atorm, causing southwest gales over the middle atlantic and lower New England coast, the winds blowing from 40 to 60 miles an hour. The storm was feit to a considerable distance out on the ocean. Rain fell during the morning over the coast States north of Virginia and inland to Michigan Clearing, cooler weather set in over the middle Atlantic States at about 10 A. M. SEEKING CANTON FAVORS.

PRESENT STATE OF THE RIVALRY FOR CABINET PREFERMENT.

Wisconsis Delegation Asks Major McLin-tey to Give Henry C. Payse a Piace-Other Candidates Thus Far-The Hawallan Secretary of State Stops in Canton

CANTON, O., Dec. 9. - After several days of un-usual quiet, when interest was temporarily transferred from the home of the President-elect to Washington and the opening of Congress, the usual routine in Canton has been resumed. To-day brought many callers to the McKinley home. Henry C. Payne, the Wisconsin National Committeeman whose name has been placed opposite Postmaster-General or Secretary of the Interior on many Cabinet slates, had a little boom to-day. Gov.-elect Scoffeld, ex-United States Senator Philetus Sawyer, and ex-Congressman Isanc Stephenson of the Marinett district constituted a Wiscon-sin party here to-day. Ostensibly they simply came to pay their respects to Major McKinley, but in course of conversation with THE SUN correspondent they let it be known that they would miss no opportunity of saying a good word for Mr. Payne. Mr. Scoffeld did the talking and the others nodded assent to what he said.

"We are heartly in favor of Mr. Payne," said the Governor-elect, "and there is almost a unanimity of sentiment in our State for him and his fitness for a Cabinet position."

They also said that there was a strong feeling in the State that Wisconsin should be honored by a place in the Cabinet. The sentiment seems to be strong among party leaders that Mr. Payne is to be called, and his intimacy with Chairman Hanna since the election encourages the gossips to talk on the subject with the appearance of conviction.

A week or two ago there were several Oregon people here, including the full Congress quote of the State. They gave the impression that they were urging a man for the Cabinet, and while talking of their hopes declined to name and Third avenue celebrated the fiftieth anni- the man. Recent gossip makes it pretty certain versary of their wedding last evening in Pohl-mann's Hall, at Courtlandt avenue and 152d ject of their solicitations. Furthermore, it is said that Mr. Dolph is a very strong probability time friend and fellow townsman, Judge Wil-York in 1842, and opened a grocery store in the liam R. Day, is not so much spoken of for Atdays immediately following the election. Many local admirers hope to see the Judge elevated to the bench or made Solicitor General if a Cabinet place is not to be his lot. The Attorney Generalship and Interior Department portfolio are prominent in all the Cabinet speculations, and many men are mentioned for the offices. Judge Goff of West Virginia and Judge Weymier of California, M. H. De Young of California, Senator Elkins of West Virginia, Senator Cullom of Illinois, Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, ex-Gov. Merriam of Minnesota are among those prominently mentioned for one or the other of these offices. There is a wide range to the present speculation on the Navy portfolio, Cornelius N. Bliss of New York, Francis H. Wilson of Brooklyn, and Congressman Boutelle of Maine being the most frequently mentioned. There is a strong feeling that the South will be represented in the Cabinet, and many gossips keep Henry Clay Evans of Tennesses opposite Postmaster-Genexerted on behalf of a number of men for the exerted on benaif of a number of men for the Agricultural Department, including Cyrus Le-land of Kansas, Samuel Alierton of Illinois, and John Bringham of Ohio, President of the National Grange. But nothing but the wildest guess is possible on the subject. Selections for the State and Treasury Depart-guess is possible on the subject.

Selections for the State and Treasury Departments are, to all appearances, as much unsettled as ever, depending on the wishes of Senator Sherman and Chairman Hanna. Senator Davis is no longer so much talked of, but John W. Foster of Indiana and Col. John Hay of Washington are in the current gossip on the State portfolio. Senator Allison continues to be talked of for the Treasury, as does Androw D. White of New York for the State Department.

Henry Cooper, Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs, accompanied by his private Secretary, Benjamin Lodge Marx, stopped in Canton today. Mr. Marx made a format call on the President-elect while Minister Cooper remained at the hotel. He declined to talk as to the political feeling of the people of Hawaii, saying:

"I have always made it a rule that Minister Hatch at Washington shall do the talking. I am here on a visit to my home in Boston, from which city I have been absent sixteen years."

Speaking of the development of Hawaii, Mr. Cooper said that the growth has been rapid. From further conversation and from the information obtainable through other sources it is believed that Mr. Cooper was here for a specific purpose in relation to the people of Hawaii. He did not call at the Mckinley home, owing to his position as a Government representative in a foreign country. It is believed here that Secretary Marx placed before the President-elect an unofficial paper from Mr. Cooper, in which the Hawaiian Premier tells of the advantages to be derived by the United States from annexation of Hawaii. Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, en route to Washington, stopped over between trains and had a conference with Major McKinley.

Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, en route to Washington, stopped over between trains and had a conference with Major McKinley. H. C. Jarvis of Rogersville, Tenn, John K. Weigand of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette McWilliams of Chicago were other callers today. The latter are relatives and Johnel the McKinleys at dinner with old friends of the Mrs. Hon. Powell Clayton was a late visitor at President-elect McKinley's to-night.

Mrs. McKinley will leave to-morrow evening for Chicago, where she will pass a couple of weeks with her cousins. Capt. and Mrs. Lafayette McWilliams. The President-elect will remain in Canton during Mrs. McKinley's absence. Among the evening callers at the McKinley's residence were Harrison Grey Otis of Los Angeles, Cal., and Alex Cope of the Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

HARRISON NOT A CANDIDATE. The General Declares That He Will Instat

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 9 .- The assertion in morning newspaper to the effect that Gen. Harrison had written a letter saying that he would not be a candidate for the United States Senate and that he favors the nomination of Charles W. Fairbanks, gave the ex-President the opportunity that his friends say he was waiting for to put an end to the boom that some were tryng to manufacture for him. Several members of the Legislature called upon him to ask that he allow the use of his name, but he declined. In his interview to-day, which has the characteristic Harrison frankness, he said that he had written no letter, and that he would not under any circumstances be a candidate.

"This purpose," continued the ex-President, is not wholly selfish, for to those friends who have urged the too friendly view that I could serve the country usefully in public office. I have serve the country usefully in public office. I have answered that I can render better service out of office; that what I may say or write on public questions as a private citizen will gain more confidence. I shall also keep out of the contest as a meddier. My only interest is that of a citizen, proud of his state, and the only advice I have to give is that the Legislature shall choose a man who will, in the highest duties of the office, dignify the State and honor the country."

In conversation the General said that he

the office, dignify the State and honor the country.

In conversation the General said that he wanted the people to understand that this was no newly formed intention of his, but that he has at no time varied in his purpose to remain during the rest of his life to purpose to remain the said that the interview printed two weeks ago was authorized in the hope that it would put a stop to the talk about himself. This announcement puts Fairbank's stock high. It is said that his nomination will not be disagreeable to the ex-President. In spite of the fact that Fairbank's, as a protégé of Gresham, was always opposed to Harrison.

Alleged Swindlers Nabbed on a Hoboken

The Hoboken police have recently received many complaints from steamship passengers who have been swindled by money changers on the steamship docks. The victims in most cases are Italians. Yesterday morning before the steamship Werra of the Bremen line had sailed for Genoa the police arrested on the dock Angelo Russo of Waterbury, Conn.; Nicholas Cailine of 7 Delancy street, Thomas Sanno of 203 Grand street, and Billi Lotto of 91 Mul-berry street, this city, on suspicion. Recorder McDonough fined Kusso $10, Lotto was dis-charged, and the others were remanded for fur-ther examination.

A new order known as the "Third Degree" has been established by the Knights of Labor. Those joining it will be initiated into the mysteries of the " philosopher's stone." This piece of hocus posts about the philosopher's stone is revived every now and then among the knights. It is believed by many to have no meaning at all, and the idea of the Third Degree is believed to be for the purpose of beoming the official or-gan of the knights, as it is promised to every Third Degree man that his name will be en-selled in the paper slong with other names.

and Canal streets, committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging herself. Samuel Roppenberg, her husband, who earns from $8 to $10 a week by making caps, had gone to work early in the morning, leaving his wife at home with the children. She sent three of the children to school, gave the two eidest, who work as seamstresses, 12 cents each when they set out for their work, and sent the three others out to buy some small groceries. Her 10-year-old daughter was the last to leave the rooms. She went out at 11:15 o'clock.

The moment she had gone, apparently, Mrs. Roppenberg locked the door and tied a long towal around her neck. She stood on a chair, ited the other end around the bottom of the transom in the bedroom, and kicked the chair over. The ten-year-old child returned in ten minutes and got into the room with a duplicate key. Her cries at the discovery of her mother hanging unconscious aroused all the tenants of the crowded tenement. There was almost a panic, and fully five minutes elapsed before any one thought of getting a physician. When he arrived the woman was dead. News of the suicide created excitement in the Jewish colony, and hundreds of people streamed into the tenument, jammed into, the little rooms, and packed the narrow staircase. The jam became so great that a number of children were bruised and crushed on the stairs. The police had difficulty in clearing the stairs and the rooms.

The suicide's husband could assign no reason for her act. She had bills and silver in her purse, and was not in want, as Roppenberg and her two daughters earned enough to support her. All she had to do was to look after the cooking for the large family and keep house.

Shot Mimself in the Court House Corridor. FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 9 .- Benjamin Greenberg, aged 27, had been cited to appear in court to-day as the defendant in a suit brought against to-day as the derendant in a suit brought against him by Elizabeth Moscovitch. Greenberg had made several ineffectual efforts to settle the suit by paying money, but the Muscovitch girl demanded that he should marry her. Greenberg had told his friends that sooner than go into court he would snoot himself.

At 9:20 the report of a pistol was heard in the corridor of the Court House. Greenberg had shot himself in the right temple, and death was almost instantaneous.

THEY CHARGE $100 A DAY.

Senator Brackett and Judge Houghton Want $23,000 as Counsel for Supt, Lathrop. ALBANY, Dec. 9 .- Senator Edgar T. Brackett and Judge Houghton of Saratoga, who were counsel for Gen. Austin Lathrop, the Superintendent of State Prisons, during the investigations of the charges against the State prison management, had a consultation with State Comptroller Roberts to-day regarding the compensation they should be paid for their services.
They had a bill ready for presentation to the Comptroller which called for the payment of $12,500 to Senator Brackett and $10,000 to Judge Houghton. Another item called for several hundred dollars for expenses, such as printing, &c., bringing the total to over $23,000. The State Comptroller told Senator Brackett to get Superintendent Lathrop's approval of the bill, and said that after it was filed in the Comptroller's office he would audit it at an amount that would be just to the State as well as to the attorneys. Senator Brackett, in speaking of his

SAMUEL L. MONELL DEAD. Member of an Old Orange County Family

Samuel L. Monell, a retired jeweller, died suddenly early yesterday morning of heart failure at his home, 865 Union street, Brooklyn, in his 73d year. He had been in his usual good health when he retired for the night, and died a few minutes after his wife was awakened by his heavy breathing. Dr. S. H. Monell, his eldest son, the well-known professor of electrotherapeutics and Roentgen photography, who also lives in the house, reached the room just in time to see his father die. The deceased belonged to the old Monell Huguenot family, who were among the first settlers in Orange county. Several members of the family figured conspicuougly in the war of the Revolution, one of them the battle of Bunker Hill and another serving in the body guard of Gen. Lafayette. Judges John James Monell, Amorose Monell, and Claudius Monell also belonged to the same John James Monell, Amorose Monell, and Claudius Monell also belonged to the same family.

The deceased was born in Orange county on March 24, 1824. When young he went to western Illinois, and for the greater part of his life he was in the Jewery business in that State. He retired from business fifteen years ago and settled in Brooklyn. He leaves a widow, three sons, and a daughter. Mrs. Monell's maiden name was Miss Sarah Jane Pollard, and her marriage to Mr. Monell forty-four years ago was a fashionable event in this city. Miss Pollard was a daughter of the late Cabin Pollard, who was the leading architect in this city haif a century ago. Mr. Pollard built the Tombs, the Astor House, and the first High Bridge, and also drew the plans for the original City Hall in Brooklyn, which would have been nearly double the size of the present structure. Mrs. Moneil is a sister of Josephine Pollard, the writer, and of Capt. Don Alonzo Pollard, a well-known Seventh Kegingent veterah.

The funeral services will be held at the house to-morrow night, the Rev. Dr. Carter of the Church of the Redeemer officiating, and the interment will be in the old family plot in the cemetery at Newburg.

Obltuary Notes,

Oblinary Notes,

The Rev. William L. Smith, pastor of the Ash Grove Methodist Church, in Albany, was taken sick at the prayer meeting last night, asked the sexton to send for a doctor, and went to his residence next door to the church. He fell on the floor of his room, and just as Dr. O'Leary entered he died. The Rev. Mr. Smith was born in Albany fifty-eight years ago, on Trinity place, less than a hundred yards from where he died. He was educated at the Kinderhook Academy, joined the Troy Conference in 1862, was ordained a deacon by Bishop Simpson, and in 1866 was ordained elder by Bishop James. He became pastor of Ash Grove Church, the oldest Methodist Church in Albany, four years ago. He had been in falling health for the past year, but was feeling well before the prayer meeting.

CIGARETTE TRUST SUIT. ARGUMENT FOR AND AGAINST THE TRUST BEGUN.

Thomas N. McCarter Says the Big Pirms Conspired to Control the Sale of Cigar-ettes and Shut Out Competition-Mr. Cheste Takes Up the Other Side. The action brought by Attorney-General John P. Stockton of New Jersey to break the Ciga-rette Trust was argued yesterday before Vice-Chancellor Reed in Jersey City. The defendant is the American Tobacco Company, which com poses the trust, and the plaintiffs are John R. and Frank W. Miller. A large array of legal talent was in attendance. It included Joseph H. Choate and W. W. Fuller of this city. Thomas N. McCarter of Newark, who repre sented the Attorney-General, and Richard V

Lindabury of Elizabeth.

Mr. McCarter opened the argument for the Attorney-General. He said that for many years prior to the organization of the trust it had been the custom in the tobacco trade for manufactorers to sell to jobbers because the retail dealers are so numerous that it would be practically impossible for the manufacturers to deal with them directly. Until the trust was formed jobbers were in the habit of purchasing from the various manufacturers such brands of paper cigarettes as they caw fit, the price being regulated by fair competition and the purchases made from such manufacturers as they chose. Thus the jobbers became a necessary agent in the conduct of the business. Before the American Tobacco Company was formed manufacturers were accustomed to seil cigarettes to jobbers at prices determined by laws of competition and trade. Since the company was formed neither it nor other corporations would make any sale to jobbers unless they entered into an agreement of which this is the principal clause: "The selling prices are at all times to be such as the company may fix in the selling list sent with the goods, and no sales to be made by the consignee at lawer prices than those so fixed. Commissions for selling and for all expenses incurred by the consignee in connection with the business will be 35 cents per thousand on all cigarettes sold at not less than $2.50 per thousand provided the consignee shall comply with these conditions."

Alf. McCarter contended that the firms comthe various manufacturers such brands of paper

Mr. McCarter contended that the firms comonditions."

Mr. McCarter contended that the firms composing the trust, Allen & Ginter, W. Duke, Sons & Co., Kenney Tobacco Company, and Goodwin & Co., had, prior to the formation of the trust, manufactured 05 per cent. of all the paper cigarettes made and sold in the United States. These firms conspired with each other, he said, to control and monopolize the entire business of manufacturing and selling paper cigarettes, and to crush all rivals and prevent competition among themselves. They decided to fix prices as they arbitrarily elected, and on Oct. 17, 1889, they entered into an agreement to form an unlawful combination or trust.

The American Tobacco Company, Mr. McCarter said, was never legally organized. It never intended to, and never did, carry on the business for which it is claimed to be organized in New Jersey, and if that fact is established it follows that the organization has no legal claim to continue to exercise franchises liegally usurped.

The argument occupied the entire day. Mr. Choate had begon to present the case for the company when adjournment was ordered until to-day. The defence is a denial that the organization was formed to shut out competition, and it is asserted that the law is compiled with because the company has an office in Newark.

BREMER RE-ELECTED,

But Fewer Than 700 Musicians Out of

2,500 Voted Altogether. The injunction obtained on Tuesday by the friends of Walter Damrosch restraining the Musical Mutual Protective Union from con-ducting its election was vacated early yesterday by Justice Pryor. The election began soon afterward in the Old Homestead, Ninety-Bret street and Third avenue. There was a regular and an independent ticket, William Anstead heading the regular ticket for President and Alexander Bremer heading the independent ticket. The name of Walter Damrosch was not on the official ballot, and he and his friends on the official ballot, and he and his friends were not present. Two policemen who were on guard dawdied away their time outside while the election was going on.

Although there are about 2,500 members in the association, lewer than 700 voted. Alexander Bremer received 515 votes for the Presidency, and was elected. William Anstead received 109, and Waiter Damrosch 18. The following were the other officers elected: Vice-President, Charles Puerner: Treasurer, Ignats Rosen; Secretary, John Mitthaner: Trastees, F. Waschauer, John M. Piefffer, and Peter 8. Allerup; Executive Board, Justus Pfeiffer, Schrieger, Andreas Schweith, C. A. Goepel, H. Vokins, George Braun, Alexander Archimede, and Thomas E. Buiger.

As the vote was such a light one it is thought the friends of Damrosch stayed away on purpose and will contest the election in the courts. The injunction was vacated on the application of Judge Steckler, who argued that the petitioners could have an ample remedy at law if the election was irregular. Judge Pryor agreed with him.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE SITE.

A Protest Against the Passage of the Quigg Bill Relating Thereto. President Henry D. McCord of the New York Custom House Site, sent a letter yesterday to Representative Seth L. THEY HORSEWHIPPED MR. BLAIR

Mr. and Mrs. King Arrested Under Indict ment When They Went to Court. William H. Blair, an elderly man who lived in a boarding house at 142 East Fifty-fifth street, caused the arrest on Oot. 28 of Mr. and Airs Henry C. King, two of the boarders, whom he charged with assaulting him. Mrs. King was held in the Yorkville Police Court under onds to appear in the Special Sessions. Yesterday, when she appeared in the latter court accompanied by her husband, she was arrested by Detective Cuff of the District Attorney's office, who also placed King under arrest, the couple having been indicted on Tuesday by the Grand Jury.

Biair's story of the assault is that he talked about Mrs. King in the boarding house, saying that she was an agressive woman. Later, he says. Mr. King invited him up stairs into a room, locked the door, and held him while Mrs. King horsewhipped him. The Kings were arraigned before Recorder Goff yesterday and furnished a new ball bond in the sum of $1,000.

MALTREATED A CHILD.

Meb About to Deal with Woolf When Two Policemen Collared Him. Philip Woolf, 20 years old, of 519 East Eightyfirst street, was arraigned before Magistrate Cornell, at the Harlem Court, yesterday afteroon, on a charge of maltreating Lydia Ehlers, 5 years old, of 411 East Eighty-first street. He as held in $2,000 ball for examination. Woolf coaxed the child into the basement of cents. Pauline Buschman, the janitress of the house, saw Woolf go into the basement with the child and followed them. As soon as Woolf saw Mrs. Buschman he ran out of the basement into the street. She followed him, crying for the police.

Woolf ran up Eighty-first street to First avenue and turned up the avenue, followed by the constantly growing crowd that had been attracted by Mrs. Buschman's outery. By the time the fugitive reached Eighty-third street the crowd had increased to at least two hundred barsons. persons.

At Eishty-fourth street Policeman Walsh intercepted Woolf just as the crowd overtook him and was about to lay violent hands on him. The crowd surrounded the policeman and his prisoner, and matters looked serious for the latter when Policeman Hammer arrived on the scene. The two policemen managed to overawe the mob, and Woolf was taken to the police station without harm.

mob, and Woolf was taken to the police station without harm.

When the prisoner reached the station house Police Capt. Dean noticed a scar on his right cheek, and at once saw that he answered the description of the man who had several times attempted to assault little girls in the precinct. The prisoner admitted that he had attempted to assault little Lydia Ehiers, but denied that he was guilty of the other attempted assaults.

THE NEW THIRD AVENUE BRIDGE. Progress of the Plan of Providing an Ad-The question of providing another approach to the Third avenue bridge came up again yesterday at the meeting of the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen, and Charles Blandy, W. D. Martin, and former Judge Henry P. McGowan spoke in favor of the proposition. W. H. Payne argued against it. The law governing the construction of the bridge, which was passed in 1892, provided Produce Exchange and Frank Brainard, Vice-that it should connect the northerly side of President and Chairman of the Committee on Third avenue in the Twelfth ward with the southerly side of Third avenue in the Twentythird ward, but when the plans were drawn third ward, but when the plans were drawn they were amended by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the approaches on the south side of the river were swung so that one came into Lexington avenue and the other lands at 129th street and Second avenue. This necessitated the building of a stone wall eighteen feet high across Third avenue, making of it what Mr. Blandy called a "pudding bag" street.

All the speakers of yesterday's hearing except Mr. Payneargued in favor of an additional approach from Third avenue on the south side of the river, so that that thoroughfare might be connected with the bridge. The Legislative Committee is in favor of preparing a bill to be presented to the Legislature asking for an appropriation to build the additional approach.

SURROGATE ABBOTT SURPRISED He Is Temperarily Restrained from Removing Administrator White.

Surrogate Abbott of Brooklyn decided a few ministrator of his wife's estate, on the ground that he had misrepresented its value and had failed to make an accounting. The Surrogate aid he would sign the papers yesterday mornsaid he would sign the papers yesterday morning, and he was surprised yesterday when counsel for Mr. White presented him with an order granted by Justice Osborne in the Supreme Court prohibiting him from removing Mr. White and ordering the Surrogate to show cause on Dec. 16 why he should not be permanently restrained from tasing such action.

So far as is known this is the first time in the history of the Surrogate's Court in Brooklyn that such an action has been taken.

The matter of the White estate has been in the Surrogate's Court for months, and Mr. White was only recently indicted by the Grand Jury for perjury in making a statement that his wife's estate was only $30,000, while it is said to be worth $250,000.

The City's Money Being Burned Up. Charities Commissioner Croft has requested the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to prepare a law amending the statute of last year which requires the city to furnish a suit of lothes to each insane patient that comes under its charge. Mr. Croft said that the expense was nnecessary. He told Mayor Strong that he unnecessary. He told Mayor Strong that he had made an investigation in the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island to find out what became of the clothes furnished to the patients by the city. He found that the clothes were only worn by the insane during their passage from the city to the Island, and that they accumulated so fast that it was necessary to burn great quantities of them every month. He said that the clothes cost the city $10,000 last year, and $25,000 would be necessary for the same purpose this year. Mr. Croft wants the law amended so that the clothes can be used over and over again until they are worn out.
